A CHRISTIAN COUNTRY?

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath

Almost the very last news item that came to our attention ere we set out on our summer holidays was the disturbing action on the part of the Toronto School Board in voting to accept for distribution in the public schools of Toronto the book of selected Bible Readings recently compiled and recommended by the Toronto Religious Education Council. Nor was it the mere act of introducing this set of books that provoked us, although we had voiced our strenuous objections to these particular volumes as being altogether too Christological in character to be utilized in the public schools; but it was rather the manner in which this matter was decided that caused us no little concern. While several of the trustees, particularly Mr. Brigden, showed rare understanding of the delicacy of the situation, and manifested likewise a fine sympathy for the feelings of the many different groups within the community, there were others who displayed an intolerance and a bigotry that we regretted deeply to discover within our midst.

For example, it was urged that "this is a Christian country," and therefore we presume none but Christians are to be considered. Christian country, forsooth! There is a difference between a country that is Christian, and one that is for Christians only. The first consideration of a truly Christian country were to take careful heed of the rights, the feelings, the sensitivities of — yes, "even the least of its fellow creatures," and to introduce into its public schools doctrines and dogmas which are alien to any people, regardless of how precious and true they may be to the majority, were a flagrant violation of anything that we have understood to be the essence of Christianity.

The name of Christ, for example, may have brought consolation and inspiration to uncounted millions, and there may be esteemed gentlemen on the Board of Education who cannot comprehend anyone's failure to share this faith; but all their miasmic vision notwithstanding, there are multitudes to whom unfortunately that name has been a source of misery and despair, a name in the presence of which they have learned to shudder in ghastly fear, and which has often foreshadowed for them and their tender children bloody massacre and maddening pogrom. To flaunt this name which symbolizes not so much the gentle rabbi of Nazarene, but a dogma which developed only several centuries later is the very antithesis of everything we mean by religious instruction. We are not averse to the teaching of religion per se in the schools; that is, the inculcation of sound moral principles and ethical values, but that is far different from reading from "selected" volumes the very first page of which contains the words: "Through God, through Jesus Christ, and through the Holy Spirit," which surely is the foundation not of religion, but of Christian theology. That theology may be very good, but it is strictly and exclusively Christian, and belongs not in our public schools where even certain liberal Christian taxpayers may object to their children being indoctrinated with this particular gospel. Thus, when Trustee Kinnear proclaims that "this is a Christian country," what he probably means is that the majority of its inhabitants belonging to Christian churches, their every caprice must be converted into law, regardless of others. We appeal to the true Christians of Toronto to repudiate such a perversion of the noble term Christian.

A Christian country? Do the few who are rich lovingly share their disgusting and blasphemous superabundance with the many who are poor? A Christian country? Is there no toiling husbandman starving on the Western prairies while the wheat elevators are filled to overflowing with golden grain, and while in the East the privileged élite riotously indulge in the fruit of his arduous toil? A Christian country? Are we not bent low with taxes that we might maintain the "tenth largest army in the world" which might eventually murder their fellowmen in the name of their Prince of Peace? A Christian country? And are none debarred from professions, from business offices, from hospitals, and university staffs because they are born of the same people as was He who gave them the name of which they protest — methinks too much? A Christian country?

In addition to the claim of Christian, the Bible must be read in the schools likewise to rid our Christian country of the dread plague of Communism. That convenient red herring, again: that favorite of all shibboleths, once more. So we are to rout the dastardly Bolsheviki by Bible readings? Superb logic! Read the children the stories of Biblical miracles and the miracle of Christianity; triumph over Communism will be wondrously achieved. All that is needed today to attain any end whatsoever is to assert that Communism will thus be put to flight. But in all seriousness, Communism or any other "wicked" ism can be driven from our midst, not by mere perfunctory readings, but by living up to the teachings contained therein, and the first step in that direction is to do unto others as you would have them do unto you; treat minorities, in other words, as you would be treated, if, God forbid, you too chanced not to be one of the mighty many. Which, by the way, is our hint to the Board of Education who we hope are wiser than their recent turbulent, and in some respects unreasoned and fanatical, arguments would seem to indicate.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancor,
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an anchor."

Following is an excerpt from the annual report of the Y.M.H.A. of Montreal submitted by the Executive Director, Harvey Golden:

"We have so far merely touched the surface of our field of service. For we live as an Association for public service only so long as we abide by the principle that activities for themselves alone are nothing — and that activities as instruments of character building are everything. A loyal contact with our people, a cordial and self-respecting contact with our neighbours — that is the ultimate goal of all our program; and intertwined with it are our activities — instruments for self-improvement in body and mind to the end that our men may live a more useful life. Behind and beneath the obvious phases of our activities men of vision recognize in our program the slow, steady, certain grinding out of the most valuable of the most intangible Jewish life essences.

"Can pessimism exist in the midst of an association so motivated? Can we feel anything but pride in the circumstances which enable us to provide a calm, non-controversial atmosphere in the midst of which a generation of sturdy Jewish men is hewing for itself a path of progressive Jewish life? Here and here only does the wisdom of maturity go hand in hand with the energy and ardour of modern youth.. Here and here only are all the elements of present day life and fun harnessed to the distinguished service of our people as a group. It is because the Y.M.H.A. provides those individual and national benefits which spell a vigorous group life that the very soul of the Association revolts against marking time, standing still, inviting stagnation.

"As long as youth lives and grows, just so long must the Y.M.H.A. live and grow. Already the community is drawing tangible dividends from our labours, and as time goes on these dividends will become more and more tangible. Men will graduate from our ranks — men with physique developed by health education and well regulated sport; men with a keen interest based on understanding, in the problems of our people, men with a good grasp based on information, upon the problems of the land in which we live, men with good equipment for disciplined action and spirited leadership — men, indeed, who have passed safely through the severe strain of adjustment to conditions of life which their grandparents and parents know not. This bridging of the gap which separates generation from generation is an invaluable service which the Y.M.H.A. alone is in a position to effect."

This column's annual appreciation medal for the organization which renders the most valuable public service to any Jewish community in Canada goes to the Y.M.H.A. of Montreal. It is not interested in creating a Jewish group solidarity by feeding and keeping alive the persecution complex of the Jew. It earns its right to live and grow by enabling young men to cope with the problems they find about them in every day life in this, their country. At the recent annual meeting of the Y.M.H.A. the feeling was expressed that the organization had outgrown its exclusively athletic objective and that the incoming board should set to work to solidify and expand the position of the Y.M.H.A. in matters of Jewish education and positive Jewish content.

This general policy has been arrived at undoubtedly through the clear vision and executive ability of Harvey Golden, originator of the Urban Camp for example, by which hundreds of Jewish boys will have a summer vacation although living at home in the city of Montreal. Mr. Golden is the ideal directing head for taking the Y.M.H.A. beyond the confines of an institution dedicated to athletic Judaism into the realm of a centre that is social in the broadest sense. Besides these present laurels laid about the noble brow of Mr. Golden, this column is having a companion medal struck for him as the favorite news contributor of the Review. Mr. Golden is modest, never asks the unreasonable, always has his news submitted in shape to conform to rules, and realizes that a weekly newspaper cannot achieve the size of the new Standard dictionary of the English language. These considerations make it a pleasure to be of service in keeping the Jewish public informed of the work of such an organization.

It is a dull season when Jews in some city or other do not raise a protest against Bible reading in the schools. Toronto is the most recent one in which representatives of liberal groups and certain members of the Jewish community are trying to have Bible reading discontinued on the ground that any attempt at religious training in the schools creates invidious sectarian distinctions between pupils and humiliates or antagonizes any religious minority. The fight for a thing like this is always hard but would be especially so in a city like Toronto the good where people stream into the churches three times a day even on a beautiful, summer Sunday. As Justice Sutherland of the United States Supreme Court said when this body recently denied American citizenship to two Canadians: "We are a Christian people." And Toronto is a Christian city in the minds of its majority, a substantial part of which would favor Bible reading at picnics and every place else. This column is opposed to Bible instruction or reading in the schools but does not consider that it should be more distasteful than various other annoyances which school children experience. How about corporal punishment, the use of sarcasm as a spur, compulsory mathematics above elementary grades, too long hours, detention after school hours, glorification of war heroes, glorification in story of self-sacrifice, a marking system which utilizes the fear of failure in youngsters, and, last but hardly least, home-work! School is not the place for religious instruction but neither is it a place for other things that are evils from the enlightened point of view. If individual Jews are going to take the lead against Bible readings in the school let them do that on the assumption that their program of correction has only just begun. L.L.G.

CLARENCE MICHAELS

Well-known in the local life insurance field who was the guest speaker at the Toronto Life Underwriters Association at their monthly luncheon held on Monday, June 1st.

The subject of Mr. Michaels address was "Selling Insurance in Times of Depression."

He stressed particularly the importance of carefully choosing prospects so that the agent would not waste his time calling upon people who were not in a position to purchase further life insurance, or who were not in need of service in connection with their present affairs.

He further stressed the fact that the field to-day was very large for business and Partnership insurance and stressed the danger of a business man not giving the proper thought to what would happen in the event of his death, and pointed out particularly the dangers of dying without making a proper will.

He also referred to the question of proper partnership agreements not only in partnerships but also in close corporations, and the necessity of a proper plan for stock liquidation in the event of the death of a shareholder in a close corporation.

Mr. Roney in introducing Mr. Michaels stated that Mr. Michaels had given years of study to the question of Business Insurance both for partnerships and corporations and had evolved many plans whereby a saving could be legitimately made both in income tax and succession duties.

Mr. Scrivens in thanking Mr. Michaels pointed out that he was amazed at the knowledge which Mr. Michaels appeared to have in connection with business affairs and taxation questions.

FRATERNAL SOFTBALL

The games in the Jewish Fraternal Softball League last week finished as expected with the exception of the Bnai Brith and YMHA game on Friday night, the Y team, behind the fine pitching of Fred Ganz in his first effort turning back the champions of '30 allowing but four scattered hits. Lou Poser caught a nice game and had two blows at bat. Judeans won the late game from Pride of Israel, the latter leading two to nil going into the fifth frame. George Goldman and Mandell had two hits for the Pride while Kramer starred for the winners in the field. Abe Robinson made a fine catch, leaping in every play at the stars. Judeans six runs in the one frame gave them the game 7 to 2. Grand Order of Israel and Knights of Pythias kept pace with the leading Judeans, the former defeating the Foresters in the early game on Tuesday with Wilson, Abrams, H. Leder and Carl Gold leading the batters. "Pee Wee" Gildman and Lou Pollock were the best hitters for I.O.F.

With all the senior officers of the Judea Lodge of the K. of P. being present to cheer them on the Pythians under Nado Caplan put over another win with Rokeah as victims by the score of 16 to 7 in the late game. Lou Goldenberg led all hitters with four blows, while Jack Phillips received an ovation from the fans for his two startling catches in the field, robbing the batters of sure homers. Nado Caplan helped his own cause with three hits. Grassman was the only member of the Jewish Druggists to get two hits.

Among Toronto Jewish Women

Mrs. J. Waxman, Joffre Apartments, says: "Two truly charming women I know in Toronto are Mrs. Sol Cohen, of 188 Vaughan Road, and Mrs. Frank Schipper, of 11 Rusholme Park Crescent. The former I consider an ideal mother. The time she devotes to the developing of her child's personality and character is certainly not wasted as anyone who has seen her lovely daughter will testify. Mrs. Cohen is a charming hostess and a remarkable personality. Mrs. Schipper's hobby is cultivating friends and she has a large collection who derive as much pleasure from contact with her as she from them. She has that knack for inspiring friendship even in a stranger that sets her apart from the average woman. In addition to the attention her house and four children require she still finds time for a great deal of work in the community.

Hobby work will entail considerable expenditures on behalf of the Association, and boys registering will be asked to pay 10 cents a week. Boys will keep everything that they make, and at the end of the camp season a parents' tea will be held, at which the Hobby Exhibit will be displayed. The Library and Jewish citizenship periods are intended to give restful instruction to Urban Campers. The efficiency tests are intended to gauge the health improvement of the boys during the summer. Parents are requested to follow recommendations of Y. M. H. A. Urban Camp leaders as to diet and other health phases of their boys. At the end of the summer weight and chest expansion will be compared, and definite conclusions as to the usefulness of the Urban Camp will be drawn. For purposes of the Urban Camp, the gymnasium, showers, swimming pool, auditorium, the work and club rooms, are thrown open. Perfect discipline will be maintained. Boys will meet their councillors at their tribal trees on Fletcher's Field, across the street from the Y.M.H.A., at 1:30 every day. The program will continue until 5 o'clock every day, when there will be a general dismissal. A point system incorporating qualities of character and improvement in information and athletics, will be applied to all campers, and awards will be made at the end of the season, for honouring campers who have earned the greatest number of points. Urban Camp is open only to Y.M.H.A. members of the Junior and Juvenile Departments. New members in these departments will qualify for the Urban Camp. Clip this Review program.
